Alhambra Medical University
2014 Continuing Education Seminars

Jan. 19 TCM Treatment for Female Infertility (Chinese) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

One American couple out of 5 or 6 currently experiences infertility. Infertility grows more common with increasing of age, about 33% of couples in their late 30s are infertile. Other than the age and physical elements, stress, life styles, and environmental factors such as overexposures to certain pesticides and chemicals, all play a role in infertility. In this class the instructor will go over the common causes of female infertility, TCM differential diagnosis and TCM treatment protocols.

Instructor: Xu, Xingsheng, Ph.D, L.Ac.

Dr. Xu received his Ph.D in Traditional Chinese Medicine at Shanghai University of Traditional Chinese Medicine in 1989. In 1992 Dr. Xu went to Japan and established Dexing Hanfang Medical Institution at Kyushu Japan and was appointed the Honorary Director of Chinese Natural Health Magazine of Japan. In 1999 Dr. Xu won the First Place in Chinese Herbal Medicine Results in Shuguang Hospital, an affiliate hospital of Shanghai University of Chinese Medicine, and was awarded the title Chief Chinese Medical Doctor. Currently Dr. Xu is on the faculty of Alhambra Medical University and has a private practice in San Gabriel CA.

Feb. 16 TCM Treatment for Rhinopathy (English) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

E.N.T. diseases are very common in American society, and Western medicine is not often satisfied in treating ENT disorders especially in many chronic disorders, but Chinese medicine may specialize in some of rhinopathy disorders including rhinitis, atrophic rhinitis, purulent sinusitis, allergic rhinitis, nasal polyps, nasal bleeding etc. Dr. Ji Zhang was a prentice of Master Gan, Zu-Wang, former president of TCM ENT committee in China, follows and advocates Dr. Gan's theory to practice in rhinopathy disorders for 30 years. In this lecture two of treating ENT diseases by TCM, Dr. Zhang will present the points of Western diagnosis, Chinese differentiation, and share his rich experiences in treating rhinipathy diseases including effective herbs, experienced formulas, and present been successfully treated cases.

Instructor: Ji Zhang, DAOM, L.Ac.

Dr. Zhang graduated from Nanjing University of TCM in China and became an instructor/Doctor in Nanjing University of TCM in 1983. His specialty is research and clinical application of Chinese herbs. Dr. Zhang joined the writing group to edit the biggest herbal medicine dictionary in the world, which included over 10,000 herbs and was published in 1999. Dr. Zhang has 30 years of clinical experience and is currently a faculty member of Alhambra Medical University, Emperor's College, and Dongguk University Los Angeles.

Mar. 23 Treating Mysteromyoma with Integrative Medicine (Chinese) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

In this class students will learn the etiology of hysteromyoma and the different patterns of hysteromyoma by the TCM view point. Students will also learn the diagnostic standards and treatments by W. medicine, and how to integrate TCM with W. medicine to get better results for hysteromyoma patients. Mainly, the Chinese herbal formulas will be applied, and modified by the different patterns.

Instructor: Qian-Qian Zhang, M.D. (China), MSAOM, L.Ac.

Dr. Zhang received her M.D. degree in Shanghai Medical University, China 50 years ago, and she practiced as a gynecologist surgeon for more than 35 years in China. She has practiced acupuncture and TCM herbal medicine in the United States since 2000 and focused on female's diseases such as irregular menstruation, mysteromyoma as well as menopause syndrome with very good effectiveness. Dr. Zhang is currently the faculty of AMU.

Apr. 20 TCM Treatment for Otologic Diseases (English) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

E.N.T. diseases are very common in American society, and Western medicine is not often satisfied in treating ENT disorder especially in many chronic disorders, but Chinese medicine may specialize in some of otology disorders including otitis externa, eczema of auricle, tympanitis, deafness, Meniere's disease, temporomandibular joint disorder syndrome, and recurrent aphtha etc. Dr. Ji Zhang was a prentice of Master Gan, Zu-Wang, former president of TCM ENT committee in China, follows and advocates Dr. Gan's theory to practice in rhinopathy disorders for 30 years. In this lecture two of treating ENT diseases by TCM, Dr. Zhang will present the points of western diagnosis, Chinese differentiation, and share his rich experience in treating otology diseases including effective herbs, experienced formulas, and present been successfully treated cases.

Instructor: Ji Zhang, DAOM, L.Ac.

Dr. Zhang graduated from Nanjing University of TCM in China and became an instructor/Doctor in Nanjing University of TCM in 1983. His specialty is research and clinical application of Chinese herbs. Dr. Zhang joined the writing group to edit the biggest herbal medicine dictionary in the world, which included over 10,000 herbs and was published in 1999. Dr. Zhang has 30 years of clinical experience and is currently a faculty member of Alhambra Medical University, Emperor's College, and Dongguk University Los Angeles.

May 18 Clinical Development of Parkinson's Disease (Chinese) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

Parkinson's disease is a common disease especially in the aged people. The incidence of the disease increased along with the increase of age. The incidence of the disease within the age of 50 is 500/100,000. Its incidence within the age of 60 is 1,000/100,000. The male diseased persons are slightly more than those of female. The class will introduce the history of diagnosis and treatment of Parkinson's disease, and the integration of Western/Chinese medicine for treating this disease.

Instructor: Junpeng Qiu, M.D. (China)

Dr. Junpeng Qiu graduated from The Seventh Military Medical University in China in 1969 and practiced as a neurologist in China more than 40 years. He is very much experienced on neurological diseases both clinically and theoretically. He now is the faculty in three TCM universities (including Alhambra Medical University) in Los Angeles, and teaching Western medical courses.

Jun. 15 TCM Treatment for Pharyngopathy & Laryngopathy (English) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

E.N.T. diseases are very common in American society, and Western medicine is not often satisfied in treating ENT disorder especially in many chronic disorders, but Chinese medicine may specialize in some of pharyngopathy and laryngopathy disorders including pharyngitis, laryngitis, vocal nodule, hysterical paraesthesia pharynges, tonsillitis, peritonsillar abscess etc. Dr. Ji Zhang was a prentice of peritonsillar abscess etc. Dr. Ji Zhang was a prentice of Master Gan, Zu-Wang, former president of TCM ENT committee in China, follows and advocates Dr. Gan's theory to practice in rhinopathy disorders for 30 years. In this lecture three of treating ENT diseases by TCM, Dr. Zhang will present the points of western diagnosis, Chinese differentiation, and share his rich experience in treating pharyngopathy and laryngopathy diseases including effective herbs, experienced formulas, and present been successfully treated cases.

Instructor: Ji Zhang, DAOM, L.Ac.

Dr. Zhang graduated from Nanjing University of TCM in China and became an instructor/Doctor in Nanjing University of TCM in 1983. His specialty is research and clinical application of Chinese herbs. Dr. Zhang joined the writing group to edit the biggest herbal medicine dictionary in the world, which included over 10,000 herbs and was published in 1999. Dr. Zhang has 30 years of clinical experience and is currently a faculty member of Alhambra Medical University, Emperor's College, and Dongguk University Los Angeles.

Jul. 20 TCM Treatment for Pharyngopathy & Laryngopathy (Chinese) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

E.N.T. diseases are very common in American society, and Western medicine is not often satisfied in treating ENT disorder especially in many chronic disorders, but Chinese medicine may specialize in some of pharyngopathy and laryngopathy disorders including pharyngitis, laryngitis, vocal nodule, hysterical paraesthesia pharynges, tonsillitis, peritonsillar abscess etc. Dr. Ji Zhang was a prentice of peritonsillar abscess etc. Dr. Ji Zhang was a prentice of Master Gan, Zu-Wang, former president of TCM ENT committee in China, follows and advocates Dr. Gan's theory to practice in rhinopathy disorders for 30 years. In this lecture three of treating ENT diseases by TCM, Dr. Zhang will present the points of western diagnosis, Chinese differentiation, and share his rich experience in treating pharyngopathy and laryngopathy diseases including effective herbs, experienced formulas, and present been successfully treated cases.

Instructor: Ji Zhang, DAOM, L.Ac.

Dr. Zhang graduated from Nanjing University of TCM in China and became an instructor/Doctor in Nanjing University of TCM in 1983. His specialty is research and clinical application of Chinese herbs. Dr. Zhang joined the writing group to edit the biggest herbal medicine dictionary in the world, which included over 10,000 herbs and was published in 1999. Dr. Zhang has 30 years of clinical experience and is currently a faculty member of Alhambra Medical University, Emperor's College, and Dongguk University Los Angeles.

Aug. 17 The Differential Diagnosis and Integrative Treatment of Acute Abdomen (English) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

In this class students will learn how to differentiate the acute abdominal diseases by Western diagnostic methods, and how to identify the different patterns of acute abdomens by TCM diagnostic methods. The treatment principles will also be introduced with the clinical case analysis.

Instructor: Jian Zhang, M.D. (China), L.Ac.

Dr. Jian Zhang graduated from Dalian Medical University, China in 1984, and has practiced as a cardiovascular surgeon since then. He earned his Master of Science degree in Acupuncture and Oriental medicine at Samra University in 2003 and became an licensed acupuncturist. Dr. Zhang is an expert on cardiovascular diseases and very familiar with the integrative treatment for these diseases.

Sep. 21 The Differential Diagnosis and Integrative Treatment of Acute Abdomen (Chinese) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

In this class students will learn how to differentiate the acute abdominal diseases by Western diagnostic methods, and how to identify the different patterns of acute abdomens by TCM diagnostic methods. The treatment principles will also be introduced with the clinical case analysis.

Instructor: Jian Zhang, MD (China), L.Ac.

Dr. Zhang received his MD degree from Dalian Medical University in China in 1984, specializing in Cardiothoracic Surgery. Dr. Zhang completed advanced acupuncture training at Samra University of Oriental Medicine and received his Master's degree in Oriental Medicine. He is on the faculty of three TCM schools in the Los Angeles Area, and also a Clinic Supervisor in Alhambra Medical University Clinic.

Oct. 19 Nourish Life by TCM (English) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

In the Chinese calendar, winter begins on November 7th, 2014. In preparation, we will discuss the Chinese calendar and nourishing life for the winter season, as well as how to make herbal wines, nourishing syrups, medicinal rice porridges, etc. A number of recipes and formulas will be given that are appropriate for winter, using ancient and modern sources. We will make a few of these in class.

Instructor: Lorraine Wilcox, Ph.D, L.Ac.

Dr. Wilcox has been a licensed acupuncturist in California since 1989. She is on the faculty of three schools in the Los Angeles area and is the author of two books on moxibustion (Moxibustion: The Power of Mugwort Fire and Moxibustion: A Modern Clinical Handbook). Dr. Wilcox loves to find different moxibustion techniques from the old Chinese books and try them out. She also likes some of the modern innovations in moxibustion from Korea and Japan, the ones that do not involve electricity.

Nov. 16 TCM Treatment for Rhinopathy (Chinese) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

E.N.T. diseases are very common in American society, and Western medicine is not often satisfied in treating ENT disorders especially in many chronic disorders, but Chinese medicine may specialize in some of rhinopathy disorders including rhinitis, atrophic rhinitis, purulent sinusitis, allergic rhinitis, nasal polyps, nasal bleeding etc. Dr. Ji Zhang was a prentice of Master Gan, Zu-Wang, former president of TCM ENT committee in China, follows and advocates Dr. Gan's theory to practice in rhinopathy disorders for 30 years. In this lecture two of treating ENT diseases by TCM, Dr. Zhang will present the points of Western diagnosis, Chinese differentiation, and share his rich experiences in treating rhinipathy diseases including effective herbs, experienced formulas, and present been successfully treated cases.

Instructor: Ji Zhang, DAOM, L.Ac.

Dr. Zhang graduated from Nanjing University of TCM in China and became an instructor/Doctor in Nanjing University of TCM in 1983. His specialty is research and clinical application of Chinese herbs. Dr. Zhang joined the writing group to edit the biggest herbal medicine dictionary in the world, which included over 10,000 herbs and was published in 1999. Dr. Zhang has 30 years of clinical experience and is currently a faculty member of Alhambra Medical University, Emperor's College, and Dongguk University Los Angeles.

Dec. 21 Integrative Treatment for Stroke and Rehabilitation (English) 1pm - 5pm, 4 CEUs

Stroke affects millions of American adults. The primary goals of stroke management are to reduce brain injury and promote maximum patient recovery. It was reported that most recovery happens in the first three months, and only minor recovery occurs after six months. More recent research has demonstrated that significant improvement can be made years after the stroke. Acupuncture can integrate other different methods to maximize patient's recovery.

Instructor: Liu, Dongmei, MD, Ph.D, L.Ac.

Dr. Liu graduated from Sun Yat-Sen Medical University in China, and acquired her PhD degree from Tokyo University, Japan. She has published more than 50 papers in peer-reviewed medical journals at the University of Nebraska Medical Center and Tokyo University. Currently, Dr. Liu is on the faculty of Alhambra Medical University and an acupuncture researcher at UC-Irvine. Dr. Liu holds an USMLE medical Certificate and is one of the few outstanding professionals in the fields of both Eastern and Western Medicine.

ALL COURSES ARE PENDING CA ACUPUNCTURE BOARD'S APPROVAL